Abstract

This paper presents a historiographic challenge pertaining to the famous rupture between Sigmund Freud and Carl Gustav Jung.....

Keywords: Freud; Jung; Flournoy; history of psychoanalysis; mythopoetic; cryptomnesia; mediumnity; hypnosis; creative unconscious; dream theory

INTRODUCTION

Because the contribution made by Swiss psychologist Théodore Flournoy (1854–1920) to the discovery of the unconscious mind has not been widely acknowledged, this article examines that discovery through a re-reading of the tensions between Sigmund Freud (1856–1939) and Carl Gustav Jung (1875–1961) ...

CONTEMPORANEOUS THOUGHT ON THE UNCONSCIOUS

The genealogy of the concept of the unconscious mind before Freud contextualizes the work in French-speaking Switzerland....hypnosis and somnambulism.¹

Pierre Janet's Automatism

In an age when the phenomena of hypnosis and dual personality were in vogue
